Lt Colonel Joe Kaslick, Chief Pilot of the 300th Squadron sends the following message:

Hi Ray, (SMSgt Ray Ardis)

I received your email message from Colonel Tom Brown. He suggested that I send the attached golf tournament flyer to you as you may have some Alumnae that would be interested in participating. Before you send this out to the masses though, I wanted to explain the purpose of the tournament to you. We are trying to get the word out on the Service Before Self Foundation and to generate interest and volunteers for a much larger golf tournament fundraiser in the spring. The Service Before Self Foundation was started by MSgt Tim Potter (retired 300th Loadmaster) and Lt Colonel Steve Bruce (retired 300th AS pilot) as a way to bring funding and volunteers together in doing projects for the Charleston area service members and civilians in need of home repairs. Our tournament on October the 11th is being presented as the opportunity for Tim and Steve to make a presentation about the foundation before I start hitting folks up to help us with the spring golf tournament. Please let anyone you may be considering participating with in this tournament know that there will be a sales pitch about the foundation and that I will be looking for help with fundraising and organizing the larger spring tournament. I realize this may turn a few players away but also bring out some folks that are willing and able to help. At any rate I wanted you to have full disclosure. Please feel free to call me with any questions you may have at \(843\) 259-9914.

Thanks much,

Joe Kaslick, Lt Colonel
Chief Pilot, 300 AS
